Sustainable Food Workshop to be held January 29

The South Carolina Food Policy Council is hosting a workshop to address local food policies at the Hilton Columbia Center on Friday, January 29 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

This one-day workshop will look at all aspects of food policy in South Carolina including sustainable production, distribution and consumption trends and explore why a sustainable food system is advantageous to our state. The goal of the workshop is to explore the challenges and opportunities leading to the development of sustainable food systems for South Carolina.

Registration forms can be downloaded from the SC Department of Agriculture's website located at: www.agriculture.sc.gov. A block of rooms has been reserved at the Hilton Columbia Center, 803-744-7800.

For more information please contact Beth Crocker with the SC Department of Agriculture at 803-734-2193 or bcrocker@scda.sc.gov.

SC Equine Expo and SCHC Annual Business Meeting

The South Carolina Horsemen's Council (SCHC) is hosting an Equine Expo in conjunction with its Annual Business Meeting on February 6 at the SC Equine Park-Westfall Complex, 443 Cleveland School Road, Camden, SC.

A Parade of Breeds will showcase many different equine breeds from miniature mules and horses to pleasure and draft horses. Parents should plan to bring the little kids to let them design their own "stick horses". Exhibitions, clinics, and demonstrations will be given by drill teams, equine dentists, farriers, trainers, and others. Vendors will be on site to showcase their products from horse trailers to clothing and tack. A silent auction and a used tack sale will be held with all proceeds going to the SCHC youth scholarship fund. Anyone may make a donation to this cause. A booth will be set up for collecting items such as old halters, leads, buckets, etc. if you would like to donate for the rescued horses of South Carolina.

The public is invited to attend. Admission will be $5.00 per person for non-members. SCHC members and children age 6 will be admitted free. Activities will begin at 10:00 a.m. and will continue until approximately 5:00 p.m. A special motel rate of $59/night is available at pet-friendly The Colony Inn, 2020 West Dekalb Street, Camden, SC, 803-432-5508.

For directions or more information, contact Kaye Watkins of Hartsville, Expo Chairman, at kayehrtsvll@aol.com, 843-339-2903.

The SCHC is a non-profit 501c3 organization whose primary purpose is to educate members, the general public, and government officials about equestrian activities and their numerous benefits. It is comprised of people with a variety of interests that include showing, trail riding, breeding, racing, driving and many other aspects of the equine industry. For more information about the SCHC call 803-328-8450, schorseouncil1@aol.com or visit www.schorseouncil.org to locate a local area representative.

Master Cattleman course offered at Clemson

The Anderson, Oconee, Pickens and Greenville County Clemson Extension offices will hold a six-night, in-depth series about beef cattle production from February 18 through March 25.

The classes will be taught by Area Agents, County Agents and Specialists from Clemson University each Thursday from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at Clemson's P&A Building in room A102. Topics will include general management, marketing, nutrition, forages, and herd health.

For more information or to reserve a spot, call Matthew Burns at 864-878-1394 ext. 116 or e-mail at burns5@clemson.edu. The registration fee of $125 covers all materials and is due by February 10.

Goat Management Seminar

Clemson University Cooperative Extension Service will conduct a one day Goat Management Seminar. This program will be held on Friday, February 19 at the Pee Dee Research and Education Center in Florence, SC. The program will begin 10 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m.

The program will cover several important aspects of goat production. Topics to be covered include: Forage Systems For Goats, Forage Establishment, Goat Reproductive Cycle, Signs of Labor and Kidding, Castration, Hoof Issues and Trimming, Injections, and Internal Parasites and using FAMACHA.

SC Celebrity Chefs Stir the Pot for Certified SC

Two of the Palmetto State's favorite sons, Food Network star Tyler Florence a native of Greenville and Boone Hall Farms Chef and Director of Operations Steve Stone of Mt. Pleasant, recently shared the spotlight with the South Carolina Specialty Food Association in the West Wing of AmericasMart in Atlanta.

In January of last year, the South Carolina Specialty Food Association (SCSFA) leased space in the West Wing of the AmericasMart. A year later, the SCSFA celebrated its first anniversary as the only state in the nation to have a permanent showroom at AmericasMart specifically designed for a state's specialty foods. AmericasMart Atlanta is not your normal trade show. It is the largest permanent wholesale marketplace of its kind with over 7.7 million square feet of space in three buildings attended by over a half million buyers each year.

As an AmericasMart exhibitor, the members of the SFPA have access to the buyers from around the world six times a year. SCSFA companies who were selling their products solely in South Carolina before they participated, now have their product in stores around the country.

Becky Hunter and Ginger Lett are two buyers who are adding a kitchen to their high-end retail store in High Point, NC. They attended the showcase to find products to sell in their gourmet section of the store.

UNITED

Celebrity Chefs Stir the Pot for Certified SC

Becky said, "We ship all over the U.S., and we like to support the folks who are near us in the Carolinas." After the show, the two buyers headed for the SCSFA exhibit to talk with our company representatives.

SCSFA members say that the Certified SC program has also been a great addition to their marketing efforts. Joe Reddy of Carolina's Harvest Bakery Mixes in Moncks Corner said that the Certified SC logo is a very good thing to have on your product." Buyers are looking for the logo now. Carolina's Harvest produces a delicious variety of Charleston Bakery brand mixes for biscuits, breads, cookies, muffins, and pizza pastry.

William Miller was delighted with the marketing potential for his Willie's Rubbins Hog Dust. He said, "If you have a product that you market or intend to market, you will want to be in the Specialty Food Association and a member of the Certified SC program." By the way, Willie's Hog Dust is a unique blend of spices that can be used on pork, chicken, shrimp, scallops, fish, vegetables, corn, fries, popcorn, eggs, pecans, and just about everything. William says that "everything's better dusted!"

Other companies showcasing their products in Atlanta were CocoBon Chocolatier of Anderson, Neita's Charleston Vinaigrettes & Marinades, Pawmetto Pet Treats of Columbia, and Sugah Cakes of Spartanburg. Many other South Carolina companies had their products displayed throughout the exhibit.

Chef Tyler Florence

Chef Stone graduated from Johnson and Wales finishing #1 in his class. Cutting his culinary teeth in the Charleston area with 17 years experience at Charleston's famous 82 Queen restaurant, he turned his expertise this past year to serve up fresh, local Certified SC produce and products at Boone Hall Farms Market Café in Mt. Pleasant. Passionate about food, he realizes that people are looking for a genuine connection to their roots. Food brings them that connection.

At the AmericasMart demonstration stage, Chef Stone created some of his favorite dishes using Palmetto State products including grilled South Carolina quail with collard greens, scrumptious sweet potato pecan hash browns, Callie's buttered biscuits, and American Classic sweet peach tea. Potential buyers were ecstatic about the food he prepared and made a beeline to the SCSFA Certified SC exhibit after the demonstration.

Like Chef Stone, Tyler Florence also graduated from Johnson & Wales University at Charleston and earned a second degree in Hotel & Restaurant Management. He gained his love of cooking and appreciation of fresh, local ingredients from his grandparents. He said, "I grew up in South Carolina with a Southern grandmother on one side and an Italian grandmother on the other. I've been everywhere. I am an amalgamation of everything - a deep well to diversity. I like to mix it up." And mix it up he did.

Tyler prepared pan seared halibut with mashed turnips among a variety of other culinary delights. He said the trend for food will continue to be local. "Everybody eats local," he said. "Local sustains farmers. Buy local in season." The trend will continue to be locally grown produce and products which ties in completely with the Certified SC program.

The chef experts, buyers, and company representatives agreed that local is better. That's what the Certified SC branding and marketing program is built on. Look for the logo wherever you shop or dine. And, for more information about the SCSFA AmericasMart shows, visit www.scsfa.org.

USDA to launch High Tunnel Pilot study to increase availability of locally grown foods

South Carolina included in 3-year project to verify effectiveness of high tunnels in Natural Resource Conservation

USDA announced a new pilot project under the 'Know Your Farmer, Know Your Food' initiative for farmers to establish high tunnels - also known as hoop houses - to increase the availability of locally grown produce in a conservation-friendly way. USDA highlighted opportunities available for producers in a video posted on USDA's YouTube channel at <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=07vtMJgp0No>, which shows high tunnels recently installed in the White House garden.

The three-year, 38-state study will verify if high tunnels are effective in reducing pesticide use, keeping vital nutrients in the soil, extending the growing season, increasing yields, and providing other benefits to growers.

Made of ribs of plastic or metal pipe covered with a layer of plastic sheeting, high tunnels are easy to build, maintain and move. High tunnels are used year-round in parts of the country, providing steady incomes to farmers - a significant advantage to owners of small farms, limited-resource farmers and organic producers.

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) will provide financial assistance for the project through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), the EQIP Organic Initiative, and the Agricultural Management Assistance program. NRCS will fund one high tunnel per farm. High tunnels in the study can cover as much as five percent of one acre. To sign up or learn more about EQIP assistance for high tunnel projects, contact a local NRCS office, or visit www.sc.nrcs.usda.gov.
